You are about to purchase a product that is not simple and may be difficult to understand.

What is this product?

Type:	An Over the Counter Derivative (OTC) contract – Deliverable Forward Foreign Exchange Instrument – no capital protection against market risk. The return of this product is dependent on the rate of exchange of GBP/USD.
Objective:	The objective of this product is to allow you to exchange an agreed amount of one currency for another currency for settlement on a pre-agreed date at a pre-agreed exchange rate. Terms in bold are described in more detail below. The product achieves its objective by RBS International agreeing the terms of an OTC contract with you. The exact terms of the contract agreed with you at execution will be set out in a transaction confirmation. Under which you agree to exchange an agreed amount of one currency (currency 1) for another (currency 2) (together, the currency pair) to RBS International at a pre-agreed exchange rate, called the forward rate, on a pre-agreed date (known as the settlement date). The return on this product to the investor is dependent on the level of the forward rate at which the currency pair is actually exchanged relative to the prevailing rate of exchange of the currency pair in the underlying spot market. You will be obliged to exchange the agreed amount of currency 1 to RBS International in exchange for currency 2 at the forward rate on the settlement date. The amount of currency 2 exchanged on the settlement date may be greater or less than could be achieved at the prevailing rate of exchange of the currency pair in the underlying spot market on the settlement date and hence may result in a gain or loss to you.
Intended retail investor:	This product is intended for customers of RBS International whom, if classified under MiFID, would be classified as MiFID retail investors and who are seeking to hedge future currency exposures, such as future import or export transactions, and not for speculative or investment purposes. As such you are expected to hold the product to maturity to match your exposure so that any resulting gain or loss from the product is offset by this exposure. However, should your currency exposure change, you may be either un-hedged or over-hedged and will need to be able to bear any loss determined by the underlying market at maturity of the product. Any such loss will be unknown at the outset. Please note that RBS International does not provide investment or other advice in the sale of this product.
Term:	3 Months. The exact duration of the product will be agreed at execution and will be set out with the other product terms in the confirmation of the transaction. It is a product which is entered into for its term. The product terms provide that if certain exceptional events occur, RBS International may terminate the product early. These events principally relate to your financial condition, such as your inability to meet your financial obligations, or becoming insolvent.

What are the risks and what could I get in return?

Risk indicator:

The summary risk indicator is a guide to the level of risk of this product compared to other products. It shows how likely it is that the product will lose money because of movements in the markets or because we are not able to pay you. We have classified this product as 7 out of 7, which is the highest risk class. This rates the potential loss from future performance at a very high level.

Be aware of currency risk. You will receive payment in a different currency, so the final return you will get depends on the exchange rate between the two currencies. This risk is not considered in the indicator shown above.

This product does not include any protection from future market performance so you could incur significant losses. If RBS International is not able to pay you what is owed, you could incur significant losses. However, you may benefit from a consumer protection scheme (see the section "what happens if we are unable to pay you"). The indicator shown above does not consider this protection.

Investment Performance Information

Factors likely to affect future returns For this product the spot exchange rate of the currency pair is the main factor affecting return and what you will get will vary depending on how the prevailing spot rate compares to the forward rate at which the currency pair is actually exchanged.

Most relevant Benchmark The most relevant benchmark is the spot exchange rate of the currency pair of the product. Performance and fluctuation in value of the product over its term is directly linked to the level of the spot exchange rate relative to the forward rate.

What could affect my return positively? A favourable move of the spot exchange rate on the settlement date relative to the forward rate at which the currency pair is actually exchanged meaning that the price at which you purchase the foreign currency is lower than the prevailing market rate.

What could affect my return negatively? An unfavourable move of the spot exchange rate on the settlement date relative to the forward rate at which the currency pair is actually exchanged meaning that the price at which you purchase the foreign currency is higher than the prevailing market rate.

Performance in severely adverse market conditions In severely adverse market conditions, simulations based upon past performance indicate this negative return may equal or even exceed -23.26%. These simulations are only a guide to future performance and not a guarantee or assurance and actual market conditions may develop very differently.

What happens if RBS International is unable to pay out?

In the event of a default by RBS International, you may suffer a financial loss. In the event of such loss, you will not be entitled to claim compensation from the Jersey Depositors Compensation Scheme (the "Scheme") or any other investor compensation or guarantee scheme. Full details of the Scheme and banking groups covered are available on the States of Jersey website www.gov.je/dcs or on request.
